

My success just evolved from working hard at the business at hand each day.

Johnny Carson

We live in a world of short cuts and instant gratification. We have microwave ovens to cook our food faster, diet pills to lose weight and get rich quick schemes that promise big profits.

It is easy to look at someone else's success as an outsider and think that they were lucky or just at the right place at the right time. It is nearly impossible to see the day in, day out hard work they have put in.

Think of your own successes. What hard work did you put in that others weren't willing to do? There are no tricks to success. Just lots of honest, focused work and growth each and every day.

You are a very capable and amazing person. Your hard work will lead to results.

Put your hand on your heart and say:

I choose to consistently work hard to achieve my success.
